AARP Driver Safety On-line Course

Do you need to renew your Driver Safety certificate this year?

If the answer is yes, we have a deal for you.

We do not know when we will be able to offer the course in a classroom setting, so we are offering to subsidize the AARP on-line version for you.

Just take the course on-line and send us a copy of your certificate and you will receive an event gift card of $20 that can be used any time prior to 12/31/21.

The web site is www.aarpdriversafety.org and the promo code is DRIVINGSKILLS. At this point AARP is offering a 25% discount.

Note: You don't have to be an AARP member to take the course on-line.

As of today, we have had 51 that have taken the class and were mailed a $20 gift certificate.

Masks and shots are required to attend any of the events.

Techie Corner

By John Janes

Found an article and the 5 things that can go wrong with your laptop.

When something goes seriously wrong with your laptop, you usually receive an advance warning. A virus might alter your security settings, for example, or a failing hard drive might start making funny noises. If you catch these signals early, you can quickly diagnose and fix your computer.

1. Sluggish and unresponsive performance

If your laptop begins slowing down, this does not necessarily mean it's caught a virus. However, sluggish performance can be a tell-tale sign that a hacker has hijacked your machine for secret activities such as sending spam or mining for cryptocurrencies.

Start with a thorough malware scan. Then check the programs that may be running in the background. On Windows, open the Task Manager (to find it, search for the program's name in the taskbar), and on macOS, the Activity Monitor (search for it in Spotlight). You will see a list of currently active programs, including some familiar names and some strange ones. Do not expect to recognize everything here—active processes you have not seen before aren't necessarily bad. Just try searching for those processes online to learn more about them.

2. Persistent error messages

All computers get the occasional error message. It is when you start seeing these alerts over and over again that you should start to worry.

3. Unrequested changes to settings

If your applications start behaving strangely or reconfigure their settings without your permission, your machine has probably caught a virus. After gaining access to your system, malware will often alter your settings for its own purposes, such as preventing you from removing it.

4. Random web pop-ups

Everyone must deal with pop-ups while browsing online. But if you are seeing more than normal—and they're pushing suspicious content rather than prodding you to sign up for a newsletter—then you might have a problem. What sort of pop-up content should set off alarm bells? Look out for messages that claim you have won a competition or a reward, flash a malware alert, or nag you to play games, especially if they also make it difficult for you to return to the original page. These can signal that a browser extension is behaving badly or that malware has taken root on your machine.

5. Strange noises

As a computer's internal components begin to wear out, it can grow too old to function properly. Refusal to switch on is a sure sign of hardware issues. But you should also keep an ear out for strange and repeated noises coming from the depths of your laptop, because these can indicate that hardware failure is imminent.

When you hear these sounds, immediately save your data to an external machine or a cloud service.

Some responses to using the Visa

How about 33 COSTCO hot dogs?

The cheap and the scruffy Tom Moores are happily off to the stores

They thought it quite nifty

Twenty-five has turned fifty

Time for chic masks and champagne outdoors

Wahoo!

Ceridian Retirees

Thank you very much for the Visa Card.

I don't think the Bahamas or Casinos are in our future.

Jean has Macular Degeneration, so we will send them a check.

Hope everyone has their Covid vaccine.

I'm buying a battleship.

A retired Navy Man

Lunch at Olive Garden with a generous tip. Two McDonalds drive thru. And one mocha at Caribou.

Took my wife to dinner at Jensen's in Mendota Heights; needed cash to add to the VISA amount.

Journey Down the River – Part 1

Take a trip down the Mississippi River in Minnesota. The Mississippi River flows for nearly 700 miles touching many villages, towns and cities in its route from Lake Itasca to the Iowa border. In this first program, Doug will highlight the many points of interest in the river’s upper reaches. This journey will take you from northern Minnesota to Little Falls (400 river miles). Doug has explored much of the river’s history, culture and of course beauty through his photography and personal stories. Enjoy Americas best loved river from the front (bow) seat of a canoe.
